GOVERNOR CLEVELAND'S letter of acceptance will be given to the public now in a few days. It is expected to be short, vigorous and to the point. He is said to be a writer of good English.

THERE is a United States Senator to be elected in Nevada, this year, to succeed Jones. From all accounts the man who puts up the most coin takes the prize. Jones is said to be comparatively a poor man now. John W. Mackay may buy the seat.

THE Abbots Press and Banner says: The Winsboro News and Herald thinks that a newspaper which would criticize Col. Coward is an unfit censor of the public officers of South Carolina. No such opinion has ever been expressed in these columns. The statement of the Press and Banner is without any foundation.

EX-GOV. SR. JOHN, the Prohibition candidate, says he expects to get at 80,000 votes in the State of New York. He thinks he will poll a very large vote in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Illinois and Nebraska. In the North he thinks the Prohibition vote will be drawn principally from the Republicans, and will make the result doubtful in some of the Republican States.

A COMPANY of Vicksburg, (Miss.) capitalists has erected there one of the largest spoke factories in the country, which will be put in operation in a few days. Timber of the best quality and in the greatest abundance is found all around Vicksburg, and the projectors of the enterprise propose to not only supply home market, but to compete with Western factories at important Southwestern points.

THE editor of the New York Freeman's Journal has examined Cleveland's public record, and, with a reluctant but characteristic candor, admits that there is nothing in his political career to prevent Irishmen or Catholics from voting for him. Indeed, the writer rather prefers him to Blaine. This authoritative declaration ought to disabuse the minds of many prejudiced persons who are condemning the Governor without just cause.

THE Illinois militia, in camp at Springfield, had a little breeze, occasioned by the drawing of the color line. A colored company from Chicago was ordered by the adjutant general to go into camp with the Second brigade, which is from the same city. The white militia refused to camp with the blacks, and so they had to flock off all by themselves. The anti-bellum spirit of John A. Logan seems to be marching on in Illinois.

It is said that a man recently appeared in the mineral region of Alabama who exhibited letters from Queen Victoria and other dignitaries certifying that he was worth $38,000,000. He was going to buy up all creation in that part of the world, and, for a time, he was the most popular person extant. His dupes were numerous. The bait was eagerly nibbled. After borrowing forty dollars from one of his victims, the "millionaire" sloped and has never been heard of since. He was not worth thirty-six cents.

THE custom of giving fees, or "tips," as they are called, is said to have become unpleasantly common in New York. As appeared from evidence in a recent trial, barbers habitually scrape customers who do not see them; elevator boys expect tips for accommodating passengers, drivers of stage coaches not only look for fees of persons who sit on the roof for a smoke, but stop their vehicles near the sidewalk for profitable patrons to get in or out. Conductors of street cars sometimes accept retainers for informing passengers when a particular street is reached, domestic servants in fashionable families expect fees for the slightest service rendered to guests, and even clerks and messengers in some of the great stores need the stimulus of a "tip" to move them to active service in behalf of customers.

Dr. Carver is not shooting much with the rifle, because there is more money in shotgun matches. He is going to England in the fall to contend with Walton, a rich young Englishman, for $10,000 a side. The Doctor says: Walton is what is called a "mush-room shot"—that is, he will go right along and make splendid scores until he meets some one who will beat him, and then he will quit in disgust and probably never touch a gun again. This is a very curious trait, but I met a number just like him when I was in England before. When I first went to England they turned out in force to have a match with me, but when I got to beating them they quit in disgust. It has been arranged for me to shoot an exhibition match before the Prince of Wales when I land. I have already made some excellent scores with the shotgun. In the clay pigeon shoots I broke 100 straight three times in succession, and 98 another time.

AUGUSTA Chronicle: The Republicans unloaded Robeson when he became too great a load to carry. They have finally done for Keifer what they did for Robeson. Both men illustrated their party and did its best with rude enthusiasm. It is amusing to see the party that has put Blaine in the lead unloading Robeson and Keifer! The only difference between the men is one of genius, not representation. Blaine is much more powerful than Keifer or Robeson because he is much more audaciously brilliant. But he is not more honest than these discarded small leaders, who have been sent to the rear in disgrace while he goes to the head in glorification. It would be laughable if it were not so sad. The people ought to send Blaine, in November to join Robeson and Keifer. They are birds of a feather and should flock together.

SEVERAL nominating conventions have recently been held in South Carolina. The Hon. Samuel Dibble has been unanimously renominated for Congress from the first district, the Hon. George W. Dargan from the sixth, and the Hon. Geo. J. Hemphill from the fifth. In the third, the Hon. D. Wyatt Aiken was renominated on the 11th ballot—against Messrs. Bowen, of Pickens, Murray, of Anderson, and Johnston, of Newberry. In the second district the Hon. George D. Tillman was renominated on the first ballot—against Dr. Lartigue, of Barnwell, and Mr. James Aldrich, of Aiken.

In the several judicial circuits all the incumbent Solicitors have been renominated—Mr. Jervy in the first circuit, Col. Gantt in the second, Mr. Newton in the fourth, Maj. Bonham in the fifth, Col. Duncan in the seventh, and Col. Orr in the eighth. The nominating conventions for the third and the sixth, respectively, have not yet been held.

SUGAR ought to become one of the cheap commodities. Beet sugar has become so extensively produced that it is competing successfully with the cane product of the West Indies. Chemistry, backed by German and French brains, has worked this revolution, as it promises to widen the circle in America by extracting saccharine material from Indian corn and sorghum. There is a glut of European sugar at New York and the Cuban article comes in as ballast. The Chicago Tribune says: "The warehouses of New York are crammed with sugar which Germany and France can bring thousands of miles across the ocean and sell cheaper than Cuban sugar brought across the Gulf of Mexico. Since 1850, the sugar industry of Germany has made wonderful progress, having doubled every ten years. In Germany and France brains and industry have created wealth where there were none. In Cuba Spain has created poverty out of tropical wealth."

THE CONGRESSIONAL NOMINEE. The Democratic Convention of the Fourth Congressional District has given to the people the name of Col. William H. Perry, of Greenville, as one of the Congressional standard bearers of the party.

Every county in the entire District save Spartanburg, had a favorite candidate in the field, and of course each of them was earnestly and sincerely anxious to be successful in the contest. But all could not be—only one could—and after a heated and almost unprecedented fight Col. Perry was nominated. We owe it to him, to his county and to the District, to say that his nomination was fairly and legitimately brought about. Now that it is over, we hope that the fires of the contest will die, and that the ashes left will serve to enrich the soil of Democratic hopes and elevate to a seat in the Congress the nominee of the Convention. Col. Perry's personal integrity, the purity of his character, and his acknowledged ability throughout the State as well as in Greenville county, are a guarantee that his election will redound to the good of the District and the general welfare of the State.

We have not been and are not yet in sympathy with the views of the nominee upon many of the great public questions of State interest and importance, but he is now removed to a broader field of activity, and we speak for him a career of greater usefulness and of richer promise. Fairfield will give to the nominee her warm, hearty and enthusiastic support, and on the 15th of November, our county Democracy shall poll for him a majority worthy of the party. We predict for him a triumphant election.

THE NEXT CONGRESS. A correspondent of the Philadelphia Times discusses the probable political complexion of the next Congress. The Democratic majority, through the "tidal wave" of 1883, and the unseating of a few Republican members, reached an unusual number. Both sides agree that the majority will be greatly reduced. Democrats frankly say that they do not expect a majority of more than twenty-five or thirty in the lower branch of the Forty-ninth Congress and they usually accompany that admission with the remark that no party ought to have a larger majority than that.

The Republicans do not admit the claims of the Democrats. They profess to have the most abundant faith that Blaine and Logan will have a majority of the electoral vote and also of the popular vote, and that the popularity of Blaine and Logan will assist to change so many of the Congressional districts that went Democratic in 1882 that the majority in the House will be transferred to the Republicans. In many of the districts in dispute nominations have yet to be made by one or both parties. Hence the result cannot be predicated from the starting point of personal influence or popularity, which often shapes the conclusion of the whole matter in a very close district. The Republican committee will not give any indication of the districts they hope to carry, as that would be revealing their plans and battleground to the enemy. But it is not difficult to gather from reliable sources the districts which they claim they have in view and the basis on which their hopes rest of controlling the next House of Representatives.

In California they expect to reverse the Second and Fourth districts, which are naturally Republican and which they claim were merely carried by the "tidal wave." In Connecticut the First and Fourth are wanted. In Illinois the Tenth and Sixteenth will be the battleground, and Republicans even claim that Judge John Baker, of Bellville, St. Clair county, in the Eighteenth district, will be nominated and will defeat Morrison. A gain of two is counted in Illinois, certainly. In Indiana the Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth are expected to return to their Republican first-loves. Peelle, who was unseated in favor of young English, has been or will be renominated, and a decided majority, which will leave no room for a contest, is expected for him. In Iowa the Republicans expect to reverse four districts—the Second, Fourth, Sixth and Ninth. In the Fourth "Calamity" Weller, who was elected two years ago by all the odds and ends of Prohibitionists, Nationalists, labor men and other fractions and factions, combined with the Democrats. In Massachusetts the Sixth district, now represented by Henry B. Lovering, who was elected by a majority of less than one thousand, is expected to change. In Michigan a rather clean sweep is made in prophetic—a recovery of the Detroit district and the Second, Fourth, Sixth and Seventh being anticipated. In New York the Eighth, Fifteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-third, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth and Thirty-first are the modest claims of the Republicans. Five of these seven are counted as certain. In Ohio the First and Second (the Cincinnati districts), the sixth, tenth, fifteenth, eighteenth (McKinley's), twentieth and twenty-first are claimed as certain to be recovered. In Pennsylvania the Congressman-at-Large and four districts—the twelfth, fifteenth, twenty-second and twenty-fifth—are counted as certain for the Republicans. In Wisconsin the first, third and seventh are thought to be secure for Republican majorities in a Presidential year.

This makes an aggregate of forty-three districts now represented by Democrats that are expected to change. It will be noticed that no allowance is made for changes in districts now represented by Republicans. Yet there are several instances if the present situation is any indication of the results. Even accepting the Republican figuring the districts counted as certain to change are only barely sufficient to reverse the Democratic majority in the House. Any slip or deviation from these calculations will lose the game, and it is therefore evident that the Republican hope of success in this department of the political lottery hangs on a very slender thread.

THE MEETING NEXT WEDNESDAY. After consultation with several members of Gladden's Grove and Oakland Clubs, it has been determined to have the picnic on the 20th inst., at Gladden's Grove. The Democratic meeting appointed for that day will also be held at the same place, by consent of the County Chairman.

W. T. MCCOBBEY.

A MOONLIGHT PICNIC.

Messrs. Editors: On the afternoon of Thursday, the 7th inst., a couple of young gentlemen might have been seen leisurely driving a buggy through the streets of Winnsboro, their faces betokening a dance, a picnic or some entertainment and amusement was presenting itself in all its anticipated joyousness to their imaginations, and the importance of their presence in the very near future at some particular locality seemed to dawn upon them with all the air and semblance of a duty.

Your humble scribe was one of the party above-mentioned, and bent upon a run into the country for a short time we wended our way westward and took the Huey's ferry road. The lowering clouds threatened and foreboded, but the displeasure of the elements was confined to themselves. The crops along the road seemed to have improved wonderfully within a week, the recent rain had done its good work, and every farmer we met had a broad and sunny grin upon his face. The eager, anxious feeling of an account fully settled seemed to impress him with its possibility and importance, and its corresponding effect upon us was elevating and pleasant. After a while Old Sol came out all his splendor, his presence gave us hope and happiness, it assured us of a moonlight picnic and its attendant pleasures, for it was to a picnic at the residence of Mr. William H. Ruff that we were invited and was the occasion of his driving trip.

Suffice it to say, Messrs. Editors, after a long and interesting ride at "dewy eye" we drew up in front of the hospitable residence of Mr. John D. Stanton, just as the clock was striking seven.

"The curfew tolls the knell of parting day," The loving herd winds slowly o'er the sea, And leaves the world to darkness and to me.

We had been kindly invited to take tea with that gentlemanly octogenarian, in pursuance of a proposition already formed and expressed. We alighted, were duly conducted and installed in our seats. We passed a pleasant half hour in agreeable conversation with the gentleman and were astonished at the mental vigor and vivacity displayed by him. He seemed, sir, he is eighty-five years of age, and except one tooth accidentally broken out a short time back, he has his own set complete. His nerves are as strong and his step as firm, his laugh is as loud and as hearty as vigorous as mankind ordinarily are at fifty. May this "father in Israel" live long in the full enjoyment of his faculties, be the hope and wish of his many friends.

We were surprised to hear of the sickness of our esteemed friend and fellow-townman, Mr. E. B. Ragsdale, the grandson of Mr. Stanton. He had been feeling badly and went home to enjoy his rustic air and quietude, thinking to be soon restored and re-entirely himself. He was, however, disappointed, for he soon grew worse and was confined to his bed. At this writing, he has been getting over his worst illness, and under the influence of gentle hands and watchful eyes he is now convalescent, and ere long will be seen in his cheerful face and graceful person on the Range.

Supper was announced and in we marched. Dexteros hands had deftly gathered the agreeable viands and had so prepared that they would have excited the inclination and relish of one who was far more fastidious than your humble scribe. We enjoyed the repast with heartiness, and evinced our energy of action and industry of momentum our keen appreciation of its excellence. After supper we started for the place of the picnic, and arrived there about nine o'clock, and were pleasantly surprised to see our friend Mr. R. J. McCarty and his good wife, as also Miss Maggie, his daughter, who were on a visit to Mr. Ruff and family.

As we beheld the many strange faces of the goodly array of young ladies, the becoming toilettes, the pleasant smiles and modes of vestments, we inwardly reflected "that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these," and began to wonder who was in store for us. We were kindly introduced by the host and his lady, who gracefully performed the honors of this occasion. After awhile spent in conversation a dance was gotten up.

"And when Music arose with its voluptuous thrills, Soft eyes looked love to eyes which spoke again, And all went merry as a marriage bell."

Prominent among the ladies were Misses Inez McMeekin, Anderson, Patterson, Mamie Hunter and Maggie McCarty. Miss Inez McMeekin, whose piquancy and grace added new charms to her pretty face and figure, showed herself fully competent to undergo all the varying figures and changes of the Terpsichorean pleasures and pastimes. Miss Anderson, from Camden, a complete blonde, with pretty face, attracted a good deal of attention. Miss Patterson, from Charleston, a charming little brunette, was much admired and sought after. Union had sent her prettiest contribution in the person of Miss Mamie Hunter, a very pretty young lady, whose vivacity and handsome person seemed to command the admiration and bewitch and stagger the bachelordom of most of the gentlemen present. Miss Maggie McCarty was generally admired, her prettiness and youth making her very popular.

About three o'clock the picnic broke up and the crowd dissolved. We hunted our beds and reflected upon the gay time spent. Whence comes such a way?

LINES FROM LOUISIANA.

The Growing Crops—A Good Prospect, Notwithstanding the Floods.

FLOWERY MOUND, LA., August 2.—Perhaps a few notes from this section might interest some of your many readers. Doubtless the Mississippi Valley is the most remarkable country in the world, in the varied experiences of its people—sometimes apparently doomed to destruction, and at others buoyed up with prospects bright beyond conception. Such is our experience of the present year. In the early spring all things were favorable and work was pushed ahead. Most persons finished breaking up and planted corn, say up to the 1st of March. Then the dreadful flood of the Ohio began to pour down upon us, which culminated in an entire overflow of our lands, from three to ten feet deep.

This began about the 20th of March, lasting till the 1st of June, and resulted in almost complete demoralization of the people, causing some to leave for higher land and the balance to almost despair of making a living this year, it being so late in the season. But now, after two months, quite a change has taken place. As soon as the land began to appear after the water, people began to plant in the mud (first on the 4th of June), putting both cotton and corn—in fact, everything—into the mud. This work, although disagreeable, was followed up with alacrity; and at this writing it is perfectly astonishing to see what can be accomplished in so short a time (less than two months) in this soil.

The season has been all that could be desired—rains whenever they were needed. Cotton planted from the 4th to the 12th of June is now waist high, full of blooms, and growing about eight inches a week. Corn planted at the same time is now silking and tasseling, and with one more rain will make forty bushels to the acre. The range for our stock (cattle and hogs that were kept through the water) is inexhaustible, and we are being well paid now, in milk and butter, for the trouble and expense incurred with them through the overflow.

Such is the condition of affairs now existing in this portion of Concordia Parish, and with the hope of this alluvial valley being protected from water by the general government (which we claim as a national duty, the States being powerless to perform the task), we cannot afford yet to give up our hard-earned money, notwithstanding the high waters of the last three years, but would like to see more of our South Carolina friends come and east their fortunes with us.

When I see a notice of a meeting of the survivors of the old Twelfth Regiment, S. C. V., it kindles the enthusiasm of twenty years ago, and brings vividly to my mind the trials and hardships endured by those who composed that noble old regiment, the name of which makes me feel proud whenever I hear it called. I only wish I could once more have the pleasure of meeting with my old comrades.

Wishing THE NEWS AND HERALD success, I am, yours truly,
C. B. BURLEY.

A Physician's Testimony.

I was called to see Mr. John Pearson, who was confined to his bed with what appeared to be a case of pneumonia. As all of his family had died with that dread disease (except his half brother) his death was regarded as certain and soon. After exhausting all the remedies, I finally as a last resort sent for a bottle of Dr. J. C. GARDNER'S Lung Restorer, and it acted like magic. He continued the use of it for some days and has been fully restored to health. So far as I could discover, he had consumed, and Dr. J. C. GARDNER'S Lung Restorer saved his life. J. H. HOLLAND, M. D., Barnesville, Ga.

SPRING WITHOUT BLOSSOMS.

Late in Life to Look for Joy—Yet Never Too Late to Mend.

Readers of Hawthorne's "House of Seven Gables" will recall the natives with which poor Clifford Hawthorne, who had been unjustly imprisoned since his early manhood, said, after his release: "My life is gone, and where is my happiness? Oh! give me my happiness." But that could be done only in part, as gleams of warm sunshine occasionally fall across the gloom of a New England autumn day.

In a letter to Messrs. Hiscox & Co., Mr. L. H. Titus, of Pennington, N. J., says: "I have suffered under misery from childhood from chronic disease of the bowels and diarrhoea, accompanied by great pain. I sought relief at the hands of physicians of every school and used every patent and domestic remedy under the sun. I have at last found in PARKER'S TONIC a complete specific, preventive and cure. As your invaluable medicine, which did for me what nothing else could do, is entitled to the credit of my getting back my happy days, I cheerfully and gratefully acknowledge the fact."

Mr. E. S. Wells, who needs no introduction to the people of this City, adds: "The testimony of Mr. Titus is genuine and voluntary; only he does not adequately portray the suffering he has endured for many years. He is my brother-in-law, and I know the case well. He is now perfectly free from his old troubles, and enjoys health and life, ascribing it all to PARKER'S TONIC."

OUT OF THE JAWS OF DEATH.

The gentleman who outlines his case below is a man considerably advanced in life, and is noted for his sterling integrity. His postoffice is Yatesville, Upson county, Ga. The following is:

MR. JOHN PEARSON'S STATEMENT.

In the spring of 1882 I was attacked with a very bad cough, which continued to grow worse and when I got so weak that I could not get about. I tried a great many kinds of medicine but continued to grow worse. I was told that I had consumption and would probably die. Dr. Holloway finally told me to try Dr. J. C. GARDNER'S Lung Restorer. They sent to Ward's Store and a bottle of Lung Restorer was sent right away. After taking two or three doses, I began to improve, and by the time I had used up the bottle I was able to get on my feet again. I am now in excellent health. I am confident that the Lung Restorer saved my life and my neighbors are of the same opinion. It is the best Lung Remedy ever made in my opinion. Dr. J. C. GARDNER promised me that he would write to the publisher and tell them of the wonderful cure it made in my case.

Statement of Mr. Benj. F. Heardson. Early in November, 1881, while sewing on the machine, my wife was taken with a severe pain in her side, which was soon followed by a violent cough from her lungs and a severe cough. Fever commenced, she could neither eat nor sleep, and in a few weeks she was reduced to a living skeleton. I, attending physician told me that he thought one of her lungs was entirely gone. She could not retain the most delicate nourishment, her strength failed, and she agreed with Dr. Sullivan, my family physician, to call Dr. Holloway in consultation. They made a final examination of the lungs and found that one lung was entirely gone. Dr. Holloway then suggested the Lung Restorer as a last resort. I sent for a bottle and gave her a dose. I found that she could retain it on her stomach, and after about the third dose, I began to notice some improvement in her condition. I continued the medicine regularly, and by the time she had taken two bottles, she was able to walk about the house. She is now in better health than she has enjoyed for several years. I believe that the Lung Restorer saved her life. We have a family of six children, some of them grown. Mr. Heardson's postoffice is Yatesville, Upson county, Ga. He is a thoroughly reliable man in every particular.
